This three-day online training is geared towards providing the necessary skills to enable participants to use it straight away with clients. All aspects of its use is covered in the two days. Common presenting problems addressed include trauma, grief, anxiety, phobias, depressive symptoms, anger/aggression, and relationship problems.

For information about registration, booking and any additional queries, go to www.mindwaypsych.com/bwrt/ or email Phillip at phillip@bwrt.co.nz.

This training is available to professionals who have adequate training and experience working with mental health conditions. Therefore, it is open to registered psychiatrists, psychologists, counsellors and psychotherapists. You need to have a current practicing certificate (or equivalent) and you need to have an active membership with a professional body that has oversight over practice and that has an ethics code. If you believe you would qualify (e.g. ACC Registered) please contact me to discuss this.

Space is limited to 14 participants per training to enhance learning.
